A full-length photograph of two men standing side-by-side against a dark, draped background. Both men are wearing traditional Indian attire, specifically long, intricately embroidered kurta jackets over white dhotis. They are also wearing white turbans with a small feather and a decorative brooch. The man on the left is wearing a light pink outfit, while the man on the right is wearing a cream-colored outfit. Both are wearing dark blue loafers with gold embroidery. The man on the right has his hands clasped in front of him. The lighting is soft, highlighting the intricate embroidery on the kurta jackets.

The image features two men standing side-by-side in traditional Indian attire. The man on the left is wearing a cream-colored kurta with intricate gold and silver embroidery, paired with white trousers and a white turban with a feather. The man on the right is wearing a greyish-brown kurta with similar embroidery, paired with matching trousers and a grey turban with a feather. Both are wearing dark brown loafers. The background consists of a dark, draped curtain and a large, dark sculpture of a horse on the left. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the intricate details of the clothing.
